Miraculous Escape.

Carroll Gleason of Orleans and Dan Coburn of Glover had a very narrow escape from serious injury while at work on the Willoughby River bridge Saturday morning. Gleason was working at the top of the abutments about twenty-five feet above the river bed and Coburn was operating a steam drill at the bottom of the same abutment. In some way young Gleason lost his balance and fell about twenty feet striking Coburn about fifteen feet below. Both fell to the concrete below, a distance of about ten feet.
Coburn was able to hitch up his team at a barn nearby and take Gleason to a doctor's office where it was found no bones were broken. Coburn resumed his work within an hour and Gleason was back on his job early Monday morning. A repetition of the accident would probably kill them both.

STALE WORDS PLEASE SOME

Many Writers Seem to Take Great Delight in Using Threadbare Phrases at Every Opportunity.There is a style of mind which cannot express itself except in stale and threadbare words and phrases, remarks a writer in the Knickerbocker Press. The more ancient and outworn the language, the better it pleases such folk. To them all brides are blushing, all banknotes crisp, all citizens prominent. To them the by-and-by is ever sweet; their tomes are musty, their decorations tasty and every fire is a conflagration if not a holocaust. J. Pluvius makes rain for them, their sun is Old Sol, their future dim and distant and their tomb silent. "Bids fair" makes them chortle in glee. They are best pleased, too, when they can clap quotation marks around a word or phrase, to set it off with the unctious that makes a born gossip's inflections a torture to many ears.Bromides was the name Gelett Burgess gave to these unhappy fragments of language, overworked until their savor has gone from them. But Burgess' clever notion has become itself a bromide, since the bromides have taken it up and made a bromidiom of it.Barrie, in the days when his style was forming, dreaded this failing. Artistic sensibilities as keen as his shrank from the trite. In his room he kept only a few books. One of them was Bartlett's "Quotations." When, in his writing, a phrase or line came tripping off his pen that seemed to him to have been said or heard before, he turned to Bartlett. If he found it listed there, among the "familiar," out it went. He was a writer.

BIG TIME FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Department for Them at Chautauqua, which Opens Tomorrow. Crowds Expected.The boys and girls have a big time in store for them at Chautauqua.
There's going to be a Junior Chautauqua for the youngsters under fifteen.
The Junior Chautauqua includes all the big features of the grown-ups' Chautauqua with a good deal in addition that will be of special interest to boys and girls. And it is these additional features that the local Chautauqua wants the boys and girls to know all about.A bacon bat, a field meet and a play festival are three of the many features included in the Junior Chautauqua plans. In addition to these, "Swat-em," "Hat in the Ring," "Duck on the Rock," "Three Deep," "Center Base," "Skin the Snake" and a score of other games and races will keep the little folks happy and busy.The Chautauqua management is sending a play leader here all the way from Columbia university in New York City, and this young woman will have charge of the Junior Chautauqua plans, with the aid of a local play ground assistant who has been appointed by the Chautauqua committee.To give boys and girls a right idea of play is the plan and purpose of the Chautauqua, aside from giving them a most enjoyable five days. The Junior Chautauqua is teaching boys and girls that the game that is clean and fair throughout is heaps more fun than the game in which cheating and wrangling are permitted.If the spirit of true sport at the game is to be good losers as well as good winners. And it is this spirit that the Junior Chautauqua purposes to instill into them. The Junior Chautauqua admits all children under fifteen years who hold Chautauqua season tickets. Boys and girls from six to fourteen years inclusive are admitted on children's season tickets sold at half the price of the adult season Chautauqua tickets. Children under six will be admitted free. The entire plan of the Junior Chautauqua will be fully outlined by the play director at the opening session of the regular Chautauqua. And the first meeting of the Junior Chautauqua folks will be held immediately following the first afternoon Chautauqua program. On the remaining four days of the Chautauqua (excepting Sunday) the Junior Chautauqua will meet bright and early in the forenoon of each day. Perhaps on one of these days a 6.30 o'clock morning hike will be taken. These details will be worked out and explained to the boys and girls by the play leader.There will be story hours, play hours, breakfast picnics and a world of happy events to take away the monotony and drag of hot summer days.The play leader will tell you all about the bacon bat, but as a word in advance, you should have a cup, spoon, some bread and butter, two eggs, salt and pepper and come bacon or wienies all done up in nice little bundle ready for an early start on bacon bat morning. Maybe you can rustle up a small frying pan also.Another word, plan to wear your play clothes at all the Junior Chautauqua sessions. It will insure you having a dandy good time without feeling as if you were all dressed up.The idea is for you to have the best time of your life on every one of the Junior Chautauqua days.The Chautauqua management and particularly the play leader are very much in hopes that the Junior Chautauqua will be of special interest to the fathers and mothers of the boys and girls that have a part in it. Their aim is to demonstrate the real meaning of public recreation and most practical sort of way because they believe it has a definite part in the growth and development of every healthy, normal community. If play and work has become a feature of the community, so much the better, they say. The Junior Chautauqua, then should be the more successful.So get ready for a big time, boys and girls, and be at the Chautauqua on the opening afternoon to meet the play leader. The season tickets that admit to the Junior Chautauqua admit also to all the musical, entertainment and lecture features of the regular Chautauqua, which is to be held afternoons and evenings in the big tent.

Animals and Flesh Eating.

Arguing against the eating of meat, an English writer remarks: "Almost any animal can be made to eat flesh.
The kangaroo has canine teeth. Horses, oxen and sheep may be taught to eat flesh. Norwegian cows have been known to eat flesh. Goldsmith saw a sheep eat flesh. Spallanzani has shown that a pigeon may be made to live on flesh and an eagle on bread."MAINTENANCE OF AMERICAN RIGHTS.Had this government by the use of both informal and formal diplomatic opportunities left no doubt that when we said "strict accountability" we meant precisely what we said and that we should unhesitatingly vindicate that position I am confident that there would have been no destruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania.
There we had ample notice—in fact, published notice. Furthermore, we knew the situation, and we did not require specific notice. Instead of whitening away our formal statements by equivocal conversations, we needed the straight, direct and decisive representations which every diplomat and foreign office would understand. I believe that in this way we should have been spared the repeated assaults on American lives. Moreover, a firm American policy would have been strongly supported by our people and the opportunities for the development of bitter feeling would have been vastly reduced.—From ## Sarsaparilla in Porto Rico.

Sarsaparilla grows all over the island of Porto Rico. It is in common use and "fibras" peddling it in small bundles are to be seen constantly. It is used for medicinal purposes, brewed in the form of various teas and other decoctions, and also steeped in rum.Living in Hope.
"Of course you have picked out an ideal place for your summer vacation."
"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Jobson. "When do you expect to get away?" "I don't expect to get away, at all." "But, you just said—" "That I had picked out an ideal place for my summer vacation. I've decided on the same place every spring for the past seven years, but I haven't been there yet."

SALUTES ARE MUCH ALIKE

Those of Different Nations Really Vary Little in the Sentiments They Express.The parting salutations of various nations are strikingly alike. The vale of the Latins corresponds with the similar expression of the Greeks; and though piety is not expressed distinctly in either, it was doubtless understood; for who can be kept in health without, as the ancients would say, the will of the gods?The Greek word, perhaps, has a higher significance than the Latin; for it was not a mere complimentary salutation. St. John forbids it to be given to heretical teachers.The French, on taking leave say, "Adieu," thus distinctly recognizing the providential power of the creator; and the same meaning is indeed conveyed in our own word "good-by," which is a corruption of "God be with you."The Irish, in their warmth of manner and love of words, often extend the expression.
A well-known guide, upon one of our friends leaving one of the loveliest spots in Wicklow, shook hands with him heartily and said, in a voice somewhat more tremulous through age than it was when Tom Moore loved to listen to it:"God Almighty bless you, be with you, and guide you safely to your journey's end!"This salutation, when used thoughtfully and aright, has not only a pleasant sound, but deep meaning.—Philadelphia Inquirer.
